MANIFEST FEES WILL RISE

EPA announced in July that user fees for Hazardous Waste Manifests will rise later this year, in October. The Agency did not estimate appropriately the number of manifests it expected to process under the electronic manifest system. Because a different number of manifests had to be processed as compared to what was estimated, fees have to be increased to cover the additional work that had to be undertaken to complete the processing.

EPA says it "lacked an adequate revenue stream in the initial year of system launch." The new costs will be $25 per mailed in paper manifest, $20 per scanned-image upload, $14 per data plus image upload and $8 per electronic manifest.
